What is Critical Care Nursing?

Critical care nursing is a specialized branch of nursing that focuses on the care of critically ill patients. Critical care nurses work in intensive care units (ICUs), which are hospital units that provide specialized care to patients with life-threatening illnesses or injuries.

Critical care nurses must have a strong understanding of the pathophysiology of critical illness, as well as the skills to assess and manage patients with complex medical conditions. They must also be able to work independently and as part of a team, and must be able to communicate effectively with patients, families, and other members of the healthcare team.
