Here is an excerpt from the book:

""I remember the day my father told me we were moving to Africa. I was seven years old, and I had never been out of the United States. I was excited about the adventure, but I was also scared. I didn't know what to expect, and I worried that I wouldn't fit in.

But my fears were quickly forgotten when we arrived in Zambia. The people were so welcoming, and the country was so beautiful. I loved exploring the African bush, learning about the local culture, and making new friends.

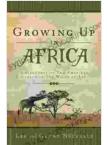

Of course, there were challenges as well. We lived in a small village, and there were times when we didn't have electricity or running water. But I learned to appreciate the simple things in life, and I grew to love the challenges that Africa presented.

I spent the next 10 years of my life in Africa, and it was the most formative experience of my life. I learned about different cultures, I developed a deep appreciation for nature, and I grew into a strong and independent woman. I am forever grateful for the opportunity to have grown up in Africa."" If you are looking for a book that will inspire you, challenge you, and make you laugh, then Growing Up In Africa is the book for you. Genny Nuckolls' memoir is a must-read for anyone who has ever dreamed of living a life of adventure and purpose.
