

Jewish Soldier in Hitler's Army: A Extraordinary True Story of Survival and Resilience

In the annals of World War II, there are countless stories of heroism, sacrifice, and survival. But few are as extraordinary as the story of Werner Goldberg, a Jewish soldier who fought in Hitler's army.

Goldberg was born in 1922 in a small town in Germany. His family was Jewish, but they were not particularly religious. Goldberg himself was more interested in sports and adventure than in religion. When the Nazis came to power in 1933, Goldberg's life changed dramatically. He was expelled from school and forbidden from participating in sports. He was also forced to wear a yellow Star of David on his clothing.

In 1941, Goldberg was drafted into the German army. He was assigned to a labor battalion and sent to the Eastern Front. Goldberg was horrified by the Nazi atrocities he witnessed, but he knew that he had to survive. He kept his Jewish identity a secret and pretended to be a devout Christian.

Goldberg fought in some of the bloodiest battles of the war, including the Battle of Stalingrad. He was wounded several times, but he always managed to return to the front. In 1945, Goldberg was captured by the Soviet army. He was held as a prisoner of war for several years before being repatriated to Germany.

After the war, Goldberg settled in Israel. He married and had a family. He never spoke about his experiences in the war for many years. But in 2008, he published a memoir entitled "Jewish Soldier in Hitler's Army." The book has been translated into several languages and has become a bestseller.

Goldberg's story is a testament to the power of the human spirit. It is a story of survival and resilience against all odds. It is a story that will inspire and amaze readers of all ages.
