

The New Leader Revolution: Unlock Your Leadership Superpowers in 100 Days

How To Understand And Leverage Your Personal LEADERSHIP STYLE

Coaching Leader

This leader is invested in developing others. Has an eye for talent and other's potential. Giving employees projects that align with their skill sets is a great way to use this leadership technique.

Laissez-faire Leader

This leader gives employees total responsibility for their actions, time management and results. It's still important to give feedback when using this approach. Ask employees how you could be of help to them.

Knowing Your Style
Can Affect How You
Influence Your Employees

Pacesetter Leader

This leader is a 'lead by example' type of leader. They are never flustered or hurried and have a keen sense of detail. They are most successful if their team is already skilled at work and time management. Giving employees tools or examples would be a good way to utilize this leadership skill.

Democratic Leader

This leader likes to share decision-making with their team. This makes everyone feel important as they are contributing to the success. Try surveying employees on how they feel about current issues, the company, and how you interact as a leader.
